

CRIPTA747 RESIDENCY PROGRAMME

FELLOWSHIP 2018
SEP - NOV
OPEN CALL FOR PROPOSAL
DEADLINE: 29th APRIL 2018

Open call for 2 fellowships at Cripta747, Turin, Italy, funded by Compagnia di San Paolo and Regione Piemonte.

Cripta747 Residency Programme aims to support the creative development of artists, curators and researchers from any field of contemporary culture, without any geographical or age limit. The Residency takes place at Cripta747's headquarters, an industrial building located in the North of Turin. Following the city's vocation for an artistic and cultural model focused on investigation and production processes, Cripta747 provides fellows with the opportunity to live and work in Turin for 8 weeks during September – November 2018 while developing individual projects and immersing themselves in the city's creative environment.

This process-based residency aims at implementing and rethinking new strategies in research and artistic practices, refocusing the attention onto the production processes. Through the fellowship, it favours mobility, fosters exchange between local and foreign researchers, and supports both material and conceptual production.

An international scientific board that consists of three members (curators, artists, directors of selected European art institutions) that change every year, characterizes and orients every edition of the residency through the final selection of the residents appointed among the proposals shortlisted by Cripta747. For this edition the board is composed by: Alessio Antonioli (Director of Gasworks, London), Giovanni Carmine, (Director of Kunst Halle Sankt Gallen) and Eva Fabbris (member of the Curatorial and Research Department of Fondazione Prada, Milan)

Fellows are invited to present the results of their researches developed in residence through a public event and an open studio.

Cripta747 Residency Programme is a project by Cripta747, realized thanks to the support of Compagnia di San Paolo and Regione Piemonte.

Fellowship

Each fellowships whole amount is up to € 6.000 and covers daily allowance, accommodation, studio rent at Cripta747 and production costs. The grant is divided as follow:

Request to the participants: Open Studio and Public Event.

Fellows in residency are invited to present the work developed in Turin through an open studio and a public event. Cripta747 encourages a spirit of openness in the programme's on-going activities, through participation programmes and public events.

OPEN STUDIO: in the first week of November, during the Contemporary art Week and Artissima Fair, there is the open studio. The opening of places dedicated to artistic production offers to public, as well as the artists involved, the unique opportunity to see and discuss issues and processes related to the research carried out in the months of residence.

PUBLIC EVENT: We also ask the residents to think out and plan an event such as a talk, a workshop, a screening, a lecture or a conference, realized during their residency with the support of Cripta747's staff, to directly engage the audience.

Studios

Each studio - 56m2, 35m2 - consists of a single room on the ground floor with different characteristics that make it suitable for various kinds of practices and production. All spaces are accessible 24/7. The structure has got a kitchen, a living area, a bathroom, storage for works and technical materials. Each room is provided with
